Practical decarbonisation pathways for industrial businesses

Next year, the EEC Industrial Decarbonisation Summit returns to the UNSW Roundhouse as a standalone event presented in partnership with the Energy Users Association of Australia (EUAA). And the conversation couldn't be more timely.

As the world acts to lower emissions, there are big opportunities for Australian industrial businesses. Harnessing our nation's plentiful renewable energy resources to power industry promises to open a new competitive advantage, exporting low and zero emissions products to the world.

It's an exciting vision, but for many energy intensive manufacturers and food processors, it can seem a long way off. Buffeted by volatility in gas and electricity markets and under pressure to demonstrate their net zero bona fides, it can be hard to get across the wide range of emerging technologies that can lower emissions and costs.

That's why we created the Summit; to support manufacturers and food processors to get across the practical pathways available for industrial decarbonisation.

Planning for prosperity in the 2030s and beyond

Industrial businesses plan over decades, not election cycles. The EEC and EUAA are working closely together to develop a program that allows energy intensive businesses to get out of the day-to-day and focus on the strategic challenges and opportunities associated with the transition to net zero, and the immediate actions they can take that will set them up for success.

The Summit will include dedicated stream sessions on:

- The new technologies ready to deploy now, and the ones just around the corner;
- Climate related financial disclosure and best practice transition planning;
- Scenario planning and risk assessment frameworks to support capital investments in the context of a rapidly transforming energy system.

Lead the conversation

We are looking to work with a small number of highly engaged partners to create a timely, relevant summit for engaged Australian businesses. This prospectus outlines a tailored selection of sponsorship options to meet your objectives and budget.

Keeping partner and sponsorship options to a small, select number allows us to work closely with you to understand your goals and maximise return on your investment. Review the options and feel free to call us to discuss a package that meets your needs.

We know more work is needed to support industry to make the transition, and this event will be a valuable step toward making it happen. We look forward to partnering with you on the 2025 Industrial Decarbonisation Summit.

SUMMIT AT A GLANCE

The Industrial Decarbonisation Summit examines Australia's emissions reduction targets, the pathway forward for industry, and how Australian businesses can chart a course to a prosperous net zero future.

The Summit will be the place for energy users to come together with energy management service and technology providers and discuss this future. Incorporating both big picture plenaries and in depth workshops, the Summit will bring together Australia's leading experts on emissions reduction in industry, including the:

- Manufacturers and food processors leading the charge on decarbonisation;
- Technical experts that support industry to manage energy and carbon;
- Policymakers shaping emissions reduction policies and incentives; and
- Researchers, think tanks and peak bodies mapping the emissions reduction pathways for Australian industry.

With the right people in the room, the Summit will help the build momentum we need for renewed focus and effort on industrial decarbonisation.

A powerful partnership

The EEC Industrial Decarbonisation Summit is delivered by the Energy Efficiency Council, Australia's peak body for energy efficiency, electrification and decarbonisation.

For the first time, in 2025 the Summit is presented in partnership with the EUAA, the peak body for energy users seeking to innovate and thrive in a modern energy market.

While the EEC is leading on the delivery on the event, the EUAA and EEC are collaborating deeply on the Summit program to ensure a timely, topical agenda that meets the needs of energy users, energy service providers and policymakers.

AUDIENCE

Leaders from energy intensive businesses, industry groups, member organisations, energy management and energy efficiency professionals, local, state and national governments, policy experts and decision makers, regulators and industry specialists (including assessors, financiers, product suppliers and service providers), academics and NGOs.

AIMS

- Hear international best-practice for scaling up net zero decarbonisation among small and medium-sized business and industry;
- Create a shared understanding of the current challenges facing industry and governments;
- Strengthen collaboration around these challenges, and their solutions;
- Build connections with policy-makers, experts and professionals committed to improving Australian industrial decarbonisation;
- Support industry development and the success of government industrial decarbonisation initiatives.
